

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections, or those of any state who have enacted similar legislation. We used to receive 5 or 6 telephone solicitations every evening, usually disrupting the dinner hour. Since signing up for the no-call list, the number has dropped to maybe one or two calls per week from organizations that we've done business with in the past. I don't want to go back to the old days!!
